PROFESSIONAL FOCUS - CIVIL SERVICES LLC

To Train Trainers - especially, yet not exclusively - in education, medical, and leadership organizations in Nonviolent CommunicationSM (NVC), Consent Circle (CC) and Restorative Circle (RC) methodologies.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

2006-present Partner, Civil Services LLC, Atlanta, GA

Dedicated to the training and coaching of organizational and system leaders, Civil Services partners are designing, developing and delivering dynamic and powerful Consent Circle, Nonviolent CommunicationSM and Restorative Circle tools that address and resolve conflict, maximize collaboration and improve effectiveness.

1996-present Co-President and Principal Partner, SACRED SPACE INC, Atlanta, GA

Committed to community support, service and enrichment, Sacred Space Inc (SSI) has sponsored, hosted and conducted Nonviolent CommunicationSM, Consent Circle and Restorative Circle public and private learning opportunities. Consulting with public, private, local, national and international organizations, SSI partners have provided tools and skills to support both growth and maximal potentiation of group vision and mission. Clients include The Douglasville Police, The U. S. Army Chaplaincy program, The Wilds, Georgia Advocacy, ATI International, UCOA, Temple Beth Shalom and the Int'l Alliance for Learning, www.SACREDSpaceINC.com

Hired as the urban design consultant to the Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority (MARTA), Mark was responsible for Transit-Oriented Development (TOD) and community consensus building planning. He helped coordinate the redevelopment of The Lindberg Station area and facilitated negotiations among 5 neighborhoods, 6 developers Bell South and MARTA.

In recent participation related to the planning of a National Peace Academy to be located at Case Western University and the initiative for Sustainable Cleveland 2019, Mark continues his interest in the relationship between the individual citizen and the systems in which we live

2009-present Partner, Atlanta EVAL Team, Atlanta, GA

Collaborating to expand science-based evidence for the efficacy of Nonviolent CommunicationSM (NVC), this team is managing the development, delivery, evaluation survey and data analysis of Nonviolent CommunicationSM courses worldwide.

1967-1999 Principal Partner, Feinknopf Macioce Schappa Architects Inc, Columbus, OH

As the former CEO and Managing Partner of Feinknopf Macioce Schappa Architects Inc in Columbus, Ohio, Mark has been a nationally acknowledged leader in the professions of architecture, urban design and community restructuring. Under his guidance the firm's designs of schools, churches, libraries, medical and mental health facilities have been recognized for their people friendly quality and sensitivity to the environment. He taught architectural design at The Ohio State University for five years and continues to write about the relationship between the individual citizen and the systems in which we live.

For many years Mark has taken leadership roles in public sector projects including intercity redevelopment of over twenty communities of various sizes. One example is The Redevelopment plan for Rochester, Minnesota which integrated the needs of the growing Mayo Clinic and the restructuring of surrounding community facilities. For 23 years he served as city planner for Bexley, Ohio a 25,000 person suburb of Columbus.

He has served on Urban Land Institute (ULI) panels for redevelopment of core areas in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida; Norfolk, Virginia; and Hollywood, California. Mark has served on over 20 public and private boards of which he chaired seven. Most significant, as Tri-Chair of Columbus Together 2000, a healthy cities initiative, he helped integrate the ideas and dreams of thousands of Central Ohio residents and organizations to establish community priorities and a community vision for the 21st Century.
